Features

Our online marking tool called Kilimanjaro enables you to record the output of professional discussions and observational assessments. In fact it can be used for any assessment where an assessor needs to rapidly jot down a series of scores.

On a touch-screen device such as an iPad or phone or Surface, the assessor can tap on a score with just a quick glance – in less time than it takes to scribble a score on paper.

Kilimanjaro allows you to enter a series of questions (or factors or criteria) and define a scoring mechanism for them. You can have any scoring scheme you like, eg 1-3, 1-5, 1-10, 1-100 – and then you can obviously combine all the question scores into an overall score.

If you have a series of questions or criteria which are simply achieved or not achieved (or pass/fail or demonstrated, proven etc), then you can set this up as well. It's also possible to set up markschemes for any grade structure eg 1=Pass, 2=Merit, 3=Distinction.

You can also define groupings for your questions, which then appear as a tab on the screen. The little sliders are easy to use for entering the scores – they can be tapped or you can slide them – but you can also click with a mouse if you're using a laptop.
